

Wingman User Acknowledgement & Disclaimer

Welcome to Wingman

Wingman is an independent roster management application designed to help airline crew organise and interpret roster information.

Before using the app, please read the following carefully.

Important Information

- Wingman is not an official airline application.
- Wingman is not affiliated with, endorsed by or sponsored by any airline unless explicitly stated.
- Information displayed by Wingman is generated by interpreting imported roster information and performing calculations based on that data.
- Although every effort is made to ensure accuracy, errors, omissions or delays may occur.
- Features such as duty calculations, pay estimates, statistics and roster summaries are provided for convenience only and should be considered estimates unless otherwise stated.
- Your employer's official roster, company systems, operational notices and payroll records remain the authoritative source of truth.
- You are solely responsible for verifying all operational, scheduling, training, leave, fatigue, duty and pay information before relying on it or making decisions based upon it.
- Wingman must not be relied upon as an operational, safety, regulatory compliance or flight planning tool.

Your Responsibility

By using Wingman, you acknowledge that:

- You understand the App may occasionally contain bugs or calculation errors.
- You will verify important information against your employer's official systems before acting on it.
- You remain solely responsible for complying with your employer's policies, aviation regulations and any other applicable legal or professional obligations.
- You understand that software updates may be required if your employer changes the format or structure of roster information.

Privacy

At present, roster information is stored locally on your device.

Future versions of Wingman may offer optional cloud synchronisation. If cloud features are introduced, you will be informed before they are enabled, and the Privacy Policy will explain how your information is collected, stored and protected.

Acceptance

By selecting "I Agree", you confirm that:

- You have read and understood this acknowledgement.

- You agree to the Wingman Terms of Service.
- You have read the Wingman Privacy Policy.
- You understand that Wingman is an informational tool only and that your employer's official systems remain the authoritative source of operational and employment information.
- You accept responsibility for verifying important information before relying on it.

☐ I have read and agree to the Wingman Terms of Service, Privacy Policy and the acknowledgements above.
