

Wingman User Acknowledgement & Disclaimer

Last Updated: 7 September 2026

Welcome to Wingman

Wingman is an independent roster-management application designed to help airline crew organise and interpret roster information. It is not an official airline application and is not affiliated with, endorsed by or sponsored by any airline unless expressly stated.

Important Information

- Wingman interprets imported information and performs calculations that may contain errors, omissions or delays.
- Duty calculations, pay estimates, statistics, roster summaries, crew matches and connected information are provided for convenience and may be incomplete or stale.
- Your employer's official roster, systems, notices and payroll records remain authoritative.
- You are responsible for verifying operational, scheduling, training, leave, fatigue, duty and pay information before relying on it.
- Wingman must not be relied on as an operational, safety, regulatory-compliance, payroll or flight-planning system.

Accounts, Cloud Processing and Sharing

If you create or sign in to a Wingman Account, information may be transmitted to and processed through Firebase and other service providers for authentication, device synchronisation, storage, server-side processing, security, support, friendship, roster sharing, crew or layover matching and other connected features.

Depending on your privacy settings, participating users or friends may be able to discover shared roster, flight, layover or profile information. You are responsible for reviewing those settings and for using information about other people respectfully and lawfully.

Statistics and Future Uses

Wingman may derive aggregated, statistical or de-identified information from roster, flight, duty, layover, pay, feature-use and technical information for service improvement, research and global or regional statistics. Raw personal rosters or reasonably identifiable individual statistics will not be intentionally published. The Privacy Policy explains these uses and is not limited to features available today.

Your Responsibility

By using Wingman, you acknowledge that:

- you will verify important information against official systems;
- you remain responsible for professional, employment, safety and legal obligations;
- you will provide only information you are authorised to handle;
- network, provider, sync and software failures may delay, duplicate, omit or conflict with information; and
- you will protect your device and account credentials.

Acceptance

By selecting "I Agree", you confirm that you have read and agree to the Wingman Terms of Service and Privacy Policy, understand this acknowledgement, and accept responsibility for verifying important information before relying on Wingman.